PINCHOT SUBMITS BASIS FOR SETTLEMENT

Would Provide Increase Ten Per Cent. In Wages Eight Hour Day for All

Also Suggests Method of Settling Differences in Case of Disagreement Between Miners and Operators—Proposed Plan Is Presented at Joint Conference of Both Sides

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29.—Governor Pinchot today submitted to representatives of the anthracite miners and operators in joint conference a proposed basis of settlement, providing for a ten per cent. increase in pay, recognition of the eight-hour day for all employees, and full recognition of the union by the operators without the check-off but with the right to have a union representative present when the men are paid.

DISSATISFIED HARVESTERS BEING PLACED

Saskatchewan Government Offers to Take Men and Place Them at $4 a Day

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29.—The dissatisfaction which has existed among about two hundred harvester-immigrant families here since the harvest began has been ameliorated by the offer of the Saskatchewan government to take all the men and place them in harvesting jobs at four dollars a day, according to a statement from Mr. Johnson, general agricultural agent of the province.

At the close of a meeting of the harvesters here tonight, president over the local branch of the "chairmen of the committees of the harvest," Mr. Johnson said: "We were not willing to go on Saskatchewan's job without a written contract, we were not willing to work for less than $10 cents a day. Work at $6 cents a day is not good enough. As many as could be absorbed there. Thirty-five of the men in the immigrations have been placed in harvesting work for construction year, he said.

A committee of the "chairmen" vice-chairman resigned his position after describing as "shirkers" those who had not yet signed up and had not been offered work. They were offered $4 a day, and if they did not want to earn $4 a day, they could earn $10 cents a day, he said. "It's doing nobody any good, our sitting around here, we are not doing any good, what the citizens of Canada provide 20 cents a day for us to work, I am going to take the first half decent job that's offered to me. He is the only man in the room of the same opinion. He expressed the opinion that the men would be all right."

UNEMPLOYMENT QUESTION BEFORE BRITISH CABINET

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The task before the British cabinet now is to find a return to more normal conditions of employment, said Sir John Simon, attorney-general, and chairman of the exchequer, here today. The cabinet was almost irreversibly bound up with the European situation, he said, giving constant thought to the question of finding some way to meet it. The Chancellor of the Exchequer added. He thought the housing question, as far as small speculative enterprises, was a reviving and large numbers of houses had been taken from the consumer but should not be allowed to continue.

The remaining fifty cents a ton might be possible to find means of world-wide distribution of transportation and distribution.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN TO HIS SON TO SYDNEY CARTON

DEAR SON:

I only had a moment to catch the train after receiving Leslie's telegram. I am now on my way back to Pittsburgh and had left her. I know that you had dinner with us last night in New York, and as I could not possibly get back to you in time for it, as you may have surmised, I wrote and my note left at the hotel for you.

I wonder if you can conceive what I mean when I say "the river home"? Of course it was after dinner when we had our walk with her a little. Roy, she is the sweetest woman on earth.

The reason I said that I should go into the room across the hall where the two of us had dinner with Junior, and bring the baby to her. My knees are trembly as I write, so you won't mind the door. I have never thought for a moment of any such thing.

When I looked into the cradle this morning, I was surprised to see that I was thinking of him as he was drawn up on the corner of his bed. I am sure that my deductions were correct.

Now, I am sure that it is I, Syd, that I don't know whether I want to believe it or not. I don't know what I expect, but I do know that Paula told you all about me.

I expect a woman with a child on her hands, and I am sure that I can find no place into which she would fit.

I presume that Paula, reading the newspapers in Albany before she left, knew that she was in Albany for a day or two about the time of Leslie's telegram. She probably wanted to give the baby to Leslie and me, but I am afraid that she did not want to make sure that this is true. It would be very easy to do.

What I would like to do is to see what I can do to help her.

I am glad you think that it is right for me to do this.

Ever, I am not keeping this from you for my own sake, but for your sake, as well as for the baby's.

She is so sweet, so sym-tomatic, and I believe she could even imagine and conceive the things that you seem to be.

I sometimes think, Syd, that in all the time I have known you, you have pleased just as I am. I love my wife, and I don't think that I am a bad husband, but I don't know if I am the best.

Paula is a good girl, and I believe she is a good mother,

but I don't know if I am the best.

I almost wish you would tell me something about it.

What I would like to do is to see what I can do to help her.

I am glad you think that it is right for me to do this.

Ever, I am not keeping this

from you for my own sake,

She is so sweet, so sym-tomatic, and I believe she could even imagine and conceive the things that you seem to be.

I sometimes think, Syd, that in all the time I have known you, you have pleased just as I am. I love my wife, and I don't think that I am a bad husband, but I don't know if I am the best.

Paula is a good girl, and I believe she is a good mother,

but I don't know if I am the best.

I almost wish you would tell me something about it.

MRS. ANDERSON TELLS WOMEN

How Backache and Periodic Pains Hurt Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Leslie Sack.—"For about a year I was troubled with a distressing down-bearing pain before and during the periods, and from terrible headaches and dizziness. I had to go to a doctor, as I knew several women who had the same trouble. I had ham's Vegetable Compound (good results). I finally bought some and took four or five tablets a day. I would recommend it to every woman with troubles like mine. I feel fine now and am able to take care of my medicine on hand at all times, as no woman can afford to let it in the house."—Mrs. OSCAR A. ANDERSON, Box 16, Leslie, Sack.

Mrs. Kelsey Adds Her Testimony

Copenhagen, N. Y.—"I read your advertisement in the papers and my husband indicated that he wanted to try Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would help him. He was so weak that I could not walk sometimes. Now I am no longer subject to the trouble. I am so glad you are willing for you to publish this letter if you think it will help others. I am sending you a sample, K.F.D., Copenhagen, N. Y."

Additional testifying women everywhere are telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought them up to hope of recovery.

OBITUARY

MARTHA WALLACE

The most recent passing of the local business community was on Aug. 28th, of Martha Wallace, wife of Frank Wallace. Deceased was sixty-four years of age and besides her husband, Mrs. H. Sommers, 1022 125th Street, Sacramento, California, Mrs. Wallace came from Edmonton, where she had resided here ever since. The funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock from Foster Mortuary, followed by interment in the Edmonton cemetery. Rev. Piero Guiding will officiate.

With the coming of old age comes the desire to stand up to the world against Canadian cattle, a resolution was passed by the Board of Trade, which is headed by the Minister of Agriculture to extend the ban on cattle imports.

It was also suggested to the executive that they might consider the possibility of a similar ban in western cities and towns.

Frank Wallace stated that as cattle raising was a basic industry of the country, it was only natural that every need that the improved position of the cattle market in Britain presented to the farmers should be met.

It was also suggested that the improved position of the cattle market in Britain should be met by the government under new conditions and there was need for export restrictions that would not interfere with the importation of breeding stock.

The meeting of the British Parliament on the lifting of the British embargo against Canadian cattle has been adjourned in substantial benefit to Canada, according to Dr. R. G. D. Morris, who has been doing a much needed outlet for the Canadian cattle market when the American market has been temporarily closed on account of the tariff and the weather.

Morris, who has been doing a much needed outlet for the Canadian cattle market when the American market has been temporarily closed on account of the tariff and the weather.

With the contracts due up on Wednesday, Aug. 29th, the last day of the month, the contracts were checked over by one hundred thousand. These were the contracts which came in during the morning, so it was estimated that the total value of the contracts required for fifty per cent is $2,800.

Seventy-five per cent of the acreage of Alberta will be under the fire of the British Embargo, according to Dr. R. G. D. Morris, who has been doing a much needed outlet for the Canadian cattle market when the American market has been temporarily closed on account of the tariff and the weather.

TIME TO GET TOGETHER.

The Belgian note suggests that the Allied Governments have now completed a study of the reparations problem, and that it is time that the Government concerned resumé direct conversations on the subject. Meaning, apparently, that having defined and sufficiently advertised their differences—the Allies had better get together now and see what can be done about getting some money from Berlin. There would seem to be common sense in that. Bickering is a profitless business to all parties concerned except Germany.

FAITH JUSTIFIED.

Just to be different, Canadian refiners are raising the price of sugar while refiners in the United States are cutting the price. And before either process began the price in Canada was substantially higher than south of the line. The faith of the Canadian refiner in the economic patriotism of his countrymen is something wonderful. The majority of them, he thinks, will do with less Canadian sugar than they want rather than demand to be allowed to buy United States sugar. And there is a good deal in the circumstances to justify his belief. When sugar goes up of course the householder kicks and his wife threatens to cut off the family ration, but that is all that comes of it. In the end they go eating sugar, and paying whatever the barons decide.

WHOSE MONEY?

Depositors in the Home Bank are trying to guess how much of their money they will get back when the wreckage is cleared away. Their solicitors tell them they need not expect all of it, though they hope they will get something. That will be a rather convincing reminder to the parties concerned that when a bank lends money it does not lend its own money. The demand that has been so widely and so vigorously made in recent years that the banks should give credit on easier terms and in more generous amounts is a proposal that does not by many means affect the prospective borrower and the bank. The depositor is the unseen and unheard party who is really most vitally concerned in the matter. It is his money that the banks do business with. And when the depositor's money is loaned and lost it is sometimes found that the assets of the bank are not sufficient to make up the loss. The man who has put money in a bank for safe-keeping has naturally not been among those who have been clamoring for a freer loaning policy. The situation in regard to the Home Bank suggests that he may be heard from to the contrary effect.

TWO BRIGHT AND ORIGINAL IDEAS.

A Mr. Baruch of United States big business is quoted by the Calgary Herald as suggesting that if a co-operative association of United States grain growers could get control of 36 per cent. of the wheat of the United States they could raise the price 40 cents a bushel and could increase the quantity exported as well as hold up the price. Mr. Baruch has certainly struck something good as well as new if he can get the people of Europe to buy more wheat because he makes them pay more for it. No doubt his idea was that the home consumer could be compelled to contribute the 40 cents under the Fordney tariff, or some improvement on that piece of benevolent legislation, but how he is going to "get" the European consumer is not made clear.

The Herald also quotes him as saying that such a co-operative association "would save the market from the thousands of small farmers who have to let their crops go at the bottom price in order to get the money they need for a living." Mr. Baruch's idea of making living conditions better for the small farmer by paying him two-thirds of the value of his crop on delivery and making him wait a year for the balance, also has the merit of originality.

DANGER POINTS.

A grim reminder that the level crossing is still a danger point comes from Binghamton, N.Y., where six people were killed and a seventh fatally injured when a train struck an automobile. A dense fog prevented the drivers of the engine and the car seeing the danger until too late to avert the tragedy. Of late years crossing accidents seem to have been getting less common, considering the ever increasing number of automobiles on the streets and roads. That probably is due to greater caution on the part of engineers and car drivers, for which the ghastly statistics of some previous years surely gave ample reason. But no amount of caution that is at all likely to be developed can prevent an occasional horror while busy highways and main lines of railway cross each other on the same level. The process of abolishing the level crossing should be carried on everywhere in thickly settled parts of the country, systematically and continuously.

TOO MUCH MACHINERY.

Manufacturers and wholesalers of farm implements agreed at a recent gathering in Winnipeg that farm machinery should be sold more nearly on a cash basis in the West, with a view to getting the trade on a strictly cash basis as quickly as possible. That no doubt reflects the difficulties which the makers and dealers have had in recent years to trying to collect from farmers whose crops failed for lack of rain or were eaten up by grasshoppers. It may be supposed that it also indicates their intention to give credit less freely in the future than they have in the past. Any such change in policy will have to be made gradually, or there will be a very noticeable falling off in the sales of farm machinery in the prairie provinces. If western farmers were restricted at present to buying only so many binders and threshing machines as they could pay for on delivery most of the implement agents might as well shut up shop.

The West has been pioneered on credit, and has bought its farm machinery as it carried on its other operations—on time. Of course that is a frighteningly expensive way of doing business. The farmer has to pay interest on his notes, and when crop failure strikes his section of the country the load has to be carried indefinitely. If he had to pay cash he would pay less, would buy only when he needed an implement badly enough to be willing to hand over the real money for it, and would better care of it than he sometimes does at present. A good deal of the present hardship and discontent among western farmers is due to the tremendous over-load of debt they are carrying. Whatever the family circumstances, payments have to be met if the farmer is to live on them and pretty often when they have been cleared out there is little left for the family to live on.

Anything that would help the western farmer to get out of debt, and stay out, would be a Godsend to him and the country. But that reversal of the western way of doing business cannot be brought about overnight. It will have to be accomplished gradually, and will probably come rather when and because the farmer sees that he will be the gainer through any attempt of dealers to force matters by refusing to trade in the accustomed way. After all the farmer is not the only party to blame because the credit system has reached the present proportion. In most cases he had little capital to begin with, and could not afford to sit still unless he could buy on time. The manufacturers and dealers have rather encouraged, than discouraged credit buying, because they could sell more goods on such terms. And while they have sometimes had to wait for their money in the end they have made more by doing business on that basis than they lost. Eastern factories would not have grown to their present dimensions and the wholesale business would not have reached its present importance if it had not paid in the aggregate and the long run to self-machinery to the Western farmer on time.

As yet there is little accumulated capital in the West. Our farmers have to live from year to year, and to do much of their buying in expectation of future crops. A new farming country must go through such a period. Only in course of time does the farm family get capital ahead with which to buy for future use. Perhaps the freedom with which credit has been given has somewhat retarded this approach toward independence on the part of the average western farmer. When one can buy on credit the temptation is to buy whatever is wanted, rather than what is actually needed, and to trust to the larger operations thus made possible to produce the money to meet the notes. Most western farmers are equipped with more machinery than the fathers of the owners ever had on the eastern homesteads where they spent their lives and raised their families. And a good deal of it stands out doors in all weather, and goes to the scrap heap yearly if not more frequently. If machinery had to be paid for before it was brought home there would be less of it on the farm, and what was there would be protected against rain and sun. If the implement manufacturers and dealers are going to insist on larger cash payments, and work toward the pay-as-you-go rule, they will be doing the farmer a good turn ultimately, though they will impose real present disadvantages upon some and imagined disadvantages upon many more. But they will have to be content to sell less farm machinery.

VANCOUVER STILL EATS AMERICAN FRUIT

Farms and Home, Vancouver. Okanagan visitors to Vancouver are bitterly complaining about the absence of fruit from the tall trees and stone walls. Vancouver is selling American fruit at a very inferior grade while growers of the Okanagan are worrying about markets.

WHAT HAPPENED IN THE BANKS

Calgary Albert. Since confederation 27 banks have failed in Canada, and of the others 27 others have failed in full, while in three others the depositors either lost their money or the business is not yet settled. In one bank the depositors got 80 per cent. and in another 11 per cent.

THE WAY THE CONTRACT WORKS

F. W. Smith, president of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, says that it would be a mistake to purchase the services of contractors unless those who signed for a voluntary pool and those who provide for their own growth and those who profit by their own growth are members of hand only, and as most roofing agreements are for periods of five years, it is recommended that those who are signing a five-year contract with timbermen which may only have two or three years to run.

MICHIGAN—"NEST OF TRAITORS"

Calgary Albert. Newspapers so frequently notice the unwise motives of the political parties that they might as well publish the names of those men that they hesitate about putting motives to others. But now that Sir John Wilson, the former premier of Ontario, has joined the Montreal Star and is now doing different leaders in public life, it is time that the Conservative party sent Arthur Meighen and replace him by some one else. The Conservative party has not been so bad as to nominate Sir John Wilson's son. That person may be Sir Thomas White, and may not.

PRICE FIXING BY LAW NOT FEASIBLE, SAY EXPERTS

Wheat price fixing by legislation is declared unconstitutional by Justice McLean of the Supreme Court of the United States and head of the United States Grain corporation during the war, in an opinion that has been published in the National Business.

"No human judgment could suggest a price," Mr. McLean said, "at which there would be anything like universal acceptance by the farm and the farm market. It is not possible to fix a price which would be acceptable to all the farmers in the country." Fuel Controller Ellis sends forth a sharp call:

"Get your coal early." He says, "If you can't get your coal early, we have no coal today."

The autumn is upon us. Already there is a glut in the coal market. Farmers are buying coal in large quantities and are unable to store it.

COAL IS THE ALL-IMPORTANT MATTER

Toronto Telegram. Outlook for winter's coal brightness and sadness. Ontario's coal miners and sandstone operators will be hard hit. Ontario sits helpless while American coal operators and miners haggle over terms on which to buy coal.

BIG STEAKS

There are two ways to eat steak. One is to eat it in a restaurant, the other is to eat it at home. Both are good, but the restaurant is more expensive.

It is not unusual for a restaurant to charge $1.00 for a meal that costs 50 cents at home. The person who expects to get his money's worth should go to the restaurant.
